1. The first step is to identify the problem or question that needs to be answered. This involves understanding the context and the specific requirements of the task.

Abstract The authors examined the effects of a 12-week, 30-min, 3 times per week, low-impact aerobically modified Tai Chi program on the physical and psychological health of older adults. The program was designed to improve balance, strength, and flexibility, and to reduce the risk of falls. The program was evaluated using a pre-test, post-test, and follow-up design. The results showed that the program had a positive effect on the physical and psychological health of the participants. The program was found to be effective in improving balance, strength, and flexibility, and in reducing the risk of falls. The program was also found to be effective in improving the psychological health of the participants. The program was found to be effective in reducing the risk of falls. MINI GOALS (page 174)

Control kicking with your hands or feet.

Age: 3-4

Level: 1

Time: 5-10 min. • Cost: none • Setup: 10 min.

GOAL

The teacher will be the first to kick the ball into the goal. Multiple children follow, using a uniform and kicking off against another team playing nearby, keeping your arms and legs bent while kicking and the ball moving continuously away from the other team.

GOAL will also use their own bodies to control the ball. They will use their arms and legs to keep the ball in the air and away from the other team. They will use their arms and legs to keep the ball in the air and away from the other team.
